Ishaaq Ibn Ibraaheem al-Handhalee narrated to us: 'Eesaa Ibn Yoonus related to us: al-Awzaa'ee narrated to us from Sulaymaan Ibn Moosaa who said, "I met Taawoos and I said, 'So and so narrated to me such and such.' He said, 'If your companion was trustworthy then take from him.'"

And Muhammad Ibn 'Abdullaah said: al-'Abbaas Ibn Abee Riznah narrated to me he said: I heard 'Abdullaah say, "Between us and the people is the isnaad."

And Aboo Bakr Ibnun-Nadr Ibn Abee an-Nadr narrated to me he said: Abu an-Nadr Haashim Ibnul-Qaasim said: Aboo 'Aqeel narrated to us saying, "I was sitting with al-Qaasim Ibn 'Ubaydullaah and Yahyaa Ibn Sa'eed. So Yahyaa said to al-Qaasim, "O Abaa Muhammad! Indeed, it is ugly that the likes of you be asked about an affair of the Religion and there is not found with you knowledge of it.' Said al-Qaasim, 'And why is that.' He said, 'Because you are a from the two imaams of guidance Ibn Abee Bakr and 'Umar.' Al-Qaasim said to him, 'What is uglier than that, with one who Allaah has given intellect, is that I speak without knowledge or take knowledge on other than one who is trustworthy.' He said, 'So he was quiet and did not answer.'"

THE TEXT OF THE MUQADDIMAH:

Stated Imaam Abul-Husayn Muslim Ibnul-Hajjaaj al-Qushayree an-Naysaabooree (d.261H), "All praise is due to Allaah, Lord of all the worlds (and the final end of the pious), and the Prayers of Allaah on Muhammad, (sallallaahu 'alayhi wa sallam), the seal of the Prophets, and on all the Prophets and Messengers, to proceed:

Certainly, may Allaah have mercy upon you, with the success from your Creator, mentioned that you desired a study of the narrations that were passed down from the Messenger of Allaah, (sallallaahu 'alayhi wa sallam), in the Sunan of the Religion and its rulings, and what is from it, from the reward and punishment, Targheeb wat-Tarheeb (encouragement and dissuasion), and other than it of which have been reported and passed down by the people of knowledge from what is between them. So you wanted, may Allah guide you, to obtain them in a collection, and you requested of me to sum them up for you in a writing without repetition. For certainly you said that it will preoccupy you from what you intended, taking understanding, and extracting from it. And from that which you asked me, may Allaah give you honour, when I reflected upon it and what it would lead to, Allaah willing, a praiseworthy end and good benefit. I thought when you requested from me [to take up this] task, that if it were decreed for me, its completion [then] I would be the first to receive the benefit from that, before anyone else for many reasons, to many to mention, except that: the precision of few is easier upon one than the reparation of many, especially for one who does not have the ability to discern [between affairs] from the common-folk, unless someone gives him understanding in that. So if the affair is as we have described, what is intended [from it] is a small amount of authentic, [which is] more proper than an abundance of the weak.

And certainly there can only be hoped, some benefit, from a large amount [of narrations] and a repetitive collection, for the knowledgeable people, from those who were given in it some awareness, and knowledge of its causes and weaknesses, so that, if Allaah wills, is entered upon due to what will come from it, in benefit, from the seeking of many. As for the common-folk, who are not from the knowledgeable of the people, the people of awareness and scholarship, it is pointless for them to seek after many whilst they are incapable of understanding few.

Then we, if Allaah wills, will begin what you requested in the exegesis [of that] and its compilation. Upon the condition I will mention to you: and it is that we will look to what has been attributed to the Prophet (sallallahu 'alayhi wa sallam) from the narrations, and divide them into three categories and three levels of people, without repetition, unless there comes a place that cannot do without repeating a narration, in it additional meaning, or a chain [of narration] that falls beside another chain because of a weakness therein. Because the addition in the hadeeth, that is in need, takes the place of a complete hadeeth. So it is necessary to repeat the narration of which in it is what we have described, or that we clarify the meaning of the hadeeth from its summarization if possible. But perhaps its clarification will be difficult from a portion of it, so it is safer to repeat the complete narration if that becomes confined. As for what we do not find necessary to repeat, then we will not if Allaah the Exalted wills.

As for the first category: we intend to present the narrations of which are freer from defects than others, and purer, that its narrators are from the people of uprightness and precision in hadeeth, not being found in their narrations severe contradiction nor grave disorder, as has been detected in many of the people of hadeeth, and has become apparent in their narration.

So if we came with [what is from] the narrations of this class of the people. We will follow it with what the narrations, that fall in their chains some of those who are not described with the preservation and precision like the class that preceded them, upon the fact that they, even if they are of a lesser degree than them, certainly possess the name [of] truthfulness, and pursuit of knowledge comprises them. Like 'Ataa' Ibn Saa'ib, and Yazeed Ibn Abee Ziyaad (d.206H), and Layth Ibn Abee Sulaym, and the likes of them from the carriers and transmitters of narrations.

So they, even with what we have described them, are well known with the people of knowledge, for learning and preservation, [but] other than them from their contemporaries, from those who possessed what we have mentioned from precision, and straightness in their narrations, are superior to them in condition and rank, because this is a lofty degree and elevated level.

Do you not see that if you were to compare those three that we named, 'Ataa', Yazeed, and Layth, with Mansoor Ibn al-Mu'tamir, and Sulaymaan al-A'mash (d.148H), and Ismaa'eel Ibn Abee Khaalid, in [the] precision of hadeeth, and uprightness [in it]. You would find them distinct from the others, not coming close, and there is no doubt with the people of hadeeth about that, from what has become abundant from them from the soundness of the memory of Mansoor, and al-A'mash, and Ismaa'eel, and their precision in hadeeth, and that they did not know the likes of that from 'Ataa', Yazeed, and Layth. From the same position as these men, if you were to compare between the contemporaries like Ibn 'Awn, and Ayoob as-Sakhtiyaanee (d.131H) with 'Awf Ibn Abee Jameelah, and Ash'ath, and al-Humraanee, and they are the companions of al-Hasan (d.110H) and Ibn Seereen (d.110H), just like Ibn 'Awn and Ayoob are also their companions, except the difference between the two is distant, in completeness of virtue, and soundness in transmission. Though Ibn 'Awn (d.151H) and al-Ash'ath are not dismissed from truthfulness and reliability, but the situation is what we have described from the position of people of knowledge.

And certainly we only use these so that their example will be a mark that will bring about an understanding for anyone who is ignorant of the path of people of knowledge in the classification of its people. So that he will not diminish the person of great esteem from his degree, and will not raise the one who is of low stature in knowledge above his place. And he will give everyone his right and put him in his proper place. And it was related on

'Aa'ishah - radiyallaahu 'anhaa - that she said, that the Messenger of Allaah commanded us to put the people in their (proper) places. With what was mentioned in the Qur'aan from the statement of Allaah,

“And over all those endowed with knowledge is the All-Knowing.” [Soorah Yoosuf 12:76]

So upon what we mentioned to you from these perspectives, we will compile what you requested from the narrations on the Messenger of Allaah (sallallaahu 'alayhi wa sallam). As for what is from it, from the people that are considered liars with the people of hadeeth, or most of them, then we will not busy ourselves with collecting their narrations:

Like 'Abdullaah Ibn Miswar Abee Ja'far al-Madaa'inee, and 'Amr Ibn Khaalid and 'Abdul-Quddoos ash-Shaamee and Muhammad Ibn Sa'eed al-Masloob and Ghiyaath Ibn Ibraaheem and Sulaymaan Ibn 'Amr Abee Daawood an-Nakha'ee, and the likes of them who are accused of fabricating hadeeth, and inventing narrations. And like that, for the most part in his narration is contradiction and error, we have also refrained from their narrations.

And the sign of the munkar, in the narration of the Muhaddith, is if you placed his narration over the narration of other than him from the people of memorization and honor, his narrations would be in contradiction to their narrations, or he would not about to be in agreement with them.

So if the majority of his ahaadeeth are like that, then his hadeeth is left, not acceptable, [and they are] not applied. From this kind of the people of Hadeeth are: 'Abdullaah Ibn Muharrar, and Yahyaa Ibn Abee Unaysah, and al-Jarraah Ibn al-Minhaal Abul'Atoof, and 'Abbaad Ibn Katheer and Husayn Ibn 'Abdullaah Ibn Dumayrah and 'Amr Ibn Suhbaan, and the likes of them in the narrating of the Munkar from the Hadeeth. So we will not turn their ahaadeeth nor busy ourselves with them.

Because the ruling of the people of knowledge, and what is known from their madhhab – in the acceptance of what is singularly narrated by a person of hadeeth, that he be in line with the trustworthy, from the people of knowledge and memorization in some of what they narrated, and strive to be in agreement with them. So if that is found, then he adds something after that which is not found with his companions, then his addition is accepted.

As for who you see going to the likes of az-Zuhree (d.124H) in his eminence and abundance of companions, from the memorizers of his ahaadeeth, and the ahaadeeth of others, or the likes of Hishaam Ibn 'Urwah, their narrations with the people of knowledge are extensive, concurrent [with others]. Their companions narrated on them their ahaadeeth upon agreement in most of them. So they narrated on them or one of them a number of ahaadeeth from what not one of their companions knew of, and did not share with them in the authentic from what was with them. Then it is not permitted to accept the hadeeth of this kind of the people. And Allaah knows best.

And we have explained from the madhhab of hadeeth and its people, some of its aim, for whoever wants the way of the people and has been given success in it. And we shall add to this, if Allah wills, explanation and clarification in places of this book at the mention of the narrations with weaknesses, if it comes to us in the passages of which deserve explanation and clarification. Allaah willing.

And to proceed, may Allah have mercy upon you, if not for that which we have seen from the evil act of many who erected themselves to [being] a scholar of hadeeth, from what necessitates their discarding weak ahaadeeth and the munkar (contradictory) narrations, and their leaving off of depending only on the well known authentic narrations, from what was narrated from the trustworthy, those who are known for truth and reliability, after their awareness and confirmation with their tongues that much of what is cast to the foolish of the people is rejected, and narrated on people who are other than pleasing, from whom it was dispraised the narrating upon them by the Imaams of hadeeth like: Maalik Ibn Anas (d.179H), Shu'bah Ibnul-Hajjaaj (d.160H), Sufyaan Ibn Uyaynah (d.197H), Yahyaa Ibn Sa'eed al-Qattaan, 'Abdur-Rahmaan al-Mahdee, and other than them from the Imaams. It would be easy to come with what you asked for from collection, and distinction.

But for the purpose of what we have explained to you from the spreading of the people rejected narrations with unknown weak narrations, and their casting them to common folk of whom do not know their weaknesses, it eases our hearts to answer what you asked.

CHAPTER: THE OBLIGATION OF NARRATING UPON THE TRUSTWORTHY AND LEAVING THE LIARS, AND WARNING AGAINST LYING UPON THE MESSENGER OF ALLAAH:

Know! May Allaah give you success. That what is obligatory upon everyone that knows the distinction between the authentic narrations and the weak, and the trustworthy narrators from those who have been accused of lying, is not to narrate except what he knows to have authentic origins and trustworthy narrators, and beware of what is from those accused of lying, the obstinate, and the people of innovation. And the proof upon that which we have said in this is correct without contradiction, is the statement of Allaah, the Most High,

“O you who believe! If a Faasiq (liar, evil person) comes to you with news, verify it, lest you should harm a people in ignorance, and afterwards you become regretful for what you have done.” [Sooratul-Hujuraat 49:6]

And He said, Sublime is His mention,

“Such as you agree for witnesses.” [Sooratul-Baqarah 2:282]

And He said,

“And take as witnesses two just persons from among you.” [Sooratut-Tallaaq 65:2]

So what we have mentioned from these aayaat points to [the fact] that the narration of the Faasiq (liar, evil person) is rejected, not accepted, and that the witness of one who is not just is rejected.

And the narration, even if it differs in meaning from the witnessing in some aspects, it is similar to it in the most important aspects since the narration of the Faasiq (liar, evil person) is not accepted with the people of knowledge just as his witness is rejected with all of them. And the Sunnah indicates the negation of reporting rejected narrations, as the indication of the Qur’aan to the negation of the narration of the Faasiq (liar, evil person), and it is a well-known narration on the Messenger of Allaah, “Whoever narrates on me with a hadeeth and sees that it is a lie, then he is one of the two liars.”<sup>1</sup>

So the people will divide, and one of them will say, 'I heard a man narrate, I know his face but not his name.'"

[18] And Muhammad Ibn Raafi' narrated to me: 'Abdur-Razzaaq narrated to us: Ma'mar reported to us from Ibn Taawoos on his father on 'Abdullaah Ibn 'Amr Ibn al-'Aas who said, "Indeed, in the sea there are devils that are imprisoned, they were fastened by Sulaymaan, they are about to escape and recite to the people a Qur'aan."

[19] And Muhammad Ibn 'Abbaad and Sa'eed Ibn 'Amr al-Ash'athee both narrated to me on Ibn Uyaynah, Sa'eed said Sufyaan informed us on Hishaam Ibn Hujayr on Taawoos he said, "He came to Ibn 'Abbaas - meaning Bushayr Ibn Ka'b - and narrated to him. So Ibn 'Abbaas said, 'Go back to such and such hadeeth.' So he returned to it and narrated it. So he said, 'I don't know if you knew all my narrations and are ignorant of this one, or ignorant of all my narrations and know this one?' Then Ibn 'Abbaas said to him, 'Indeed, we used narrate on the Messenger of Allaah when there was no lying on him. But when the people went with every ease and difficulty we left narrating on him.'"

[20] And Muhammad Ibn Raafi' narrated to me: 'Abdur-Razzaaq narrated to us: Ma'mar reported to us from Ibn Taawoos on his father from Ibn 'Abbaas who said, "Indeed, we used to preserve hadeeth on the Messenger of Allaah, but as for when the you began to go to every ease and difficulty, then how far [from that]."

I narrate to you on the Messenger of Allaah and you don't listen.' Ibn 'Abbaas said, 'Indeed, once if we heard a man say, 'The Messenger of Allaah said,' we used to hasten to him and pay close attention to him. However, when the people began to go to every ease and difficulty we only took from the people what we knew.'"

[22] And Daawood Ibn 'Amr ad-Dibbee narrated to us: Naafi' Ibn 'Umar narrated to us: from Ibn Abee Maleekah who said, "I wrote to Ibn 'Abbaas asking him to write for me a book with few narrations. He said, 'He is a sincere youth, I will chose for him some affairs and retain some narrations.' So he called for the judgment of 'Alee to write some things from it, and came across something and said, 'By Allaah! 'Alee did not rule with this except that he was misguided.'"

For what they have corrupted from knowledge.'"

[25] 'Alee Ibn Khashram narrated to us: Aboo Bakr, meaning Ibn 'Iyaash, reported to us: He said: I heard al-Mugheerah say, "No one narrated the truth in the narrations of 'Alee except from the companions of 'Abdullaah Ibn Mas'ood."

CHAPTER: THE CLARIFICATION THAT THE ISNAAD IS FROM THE RELIGION, AND NARRATION IS ONLY UPON THE TRUSTWORTHY, AND THAT THE CRITICISM OF NARRATORS DUE TO WHAT IS FOUND IN THEM IS PERMISSIBLE, RATHER IT IS OBLIGATORY, AND THAT IT IS NOT FROM THE IMPERMISSIBLE BACKBITING, RATHER IT IS FROM THE DEFENSE OF THE NOBLE ISLAAMIC RELIGION:

[26] Hasan Ibnur-Rabee' narrated to us: Hamaad Ibn Zayd narrated to us from Ayoob and Hishaam - he said - and Makhlad Ibn Husayn narrated to us from Hishaam on Muhammad Ibn Seereen who said, "Indeed, this knowledge is Religion so look to who you take your Religion from."

[32] Muhammad Ibn 'Abdullaah Ibn Quhzadh from the people of Marw narrated to me he said: I heard 'Abdaan Ibn 'Uthmaan say: I heard 'Abdullaah Ibnul-Mubaarak say, "The

And Muhammad Ibn 'Abdullaah said: al-'Abbaas Ibn Abee Riznah narrated to me he said: I heard 'Abdullaah say, “Between us and the people is the isnaad.”

And Muhammad said: I heard Aboo Ishaq Ibraaheem Ibn 'Easaa at-Taaqaanee saying: I said to 'Abdullaah Ibnul-Mubaarak, “O Abaa 'Abdur-Rahmaan! The hadeeth if which comes, “Certainly from al-birr (righteousness) after al-birr is to pray for your parents with your Prayer and to fast for them with your fast. 'Abdullaah said, ‘O Abaa Ishaq! From who is this hadeeth?’ I said, “It is from the hadeeth of Shihaab Ibn Kharaash.” He said, “He is trustworthy upon who?” I said “Upon al-Hajjaaj Ibnud-Deenaar.” He said, “He is trustworthy upon who?” I said, “He said the Prophet (sallallaahu 'alayhi wa sallam) said...” He said, “O Abaa Ishaq! Between al-Hajjaaj and the Prophet is a desert that would break the necks of the riding beasts! But there is no difference of opinion with regards to sadaqah (charity).”

And Muhammad said: I heard 'Alee Ibn Shaqeeq say: I heard 'Abdullaah Ibnul-Mubaarak say, “Leave the hadeeth of 'Amr Ibn Thaabit for certainly he used to insult the Salaf.”

[33] And Aboo Bakr Ibnun-Nadr Ibn Abee an-Nadr narrated to me he said: Abu an-Nadr Haashim Ibnul-Qaasim said: Aboo 'Aqeel narrated to us saying, “I was sitting with al-Qaasim Ibn 'Ubaydullaah and Yahyaa Ibn Sa'eed. So Yahyaa said to al-Qaasim, “O Abaa Muhammad! Indeed, it is ugly that the likes of you be asked about an affair of the Religion and there is not found with you knowledge of it.’ Said al-Qaasim, ‘And why is that.’ He said, ‘Because you are a from the two imaams of guidance Ibn Abee Bakr and 'Umar.’ Al-Qaasim said to him, ‘What is uglier than that, with one who Allaah has given intellect, is that I speak without knowledge or take knowledge on other than one who is trustworthy.’ He said, ‘So he was quiet and did not answer.”

[34] Bishr Ibnul-Hakam al-'Abdee said: I heard Sufyaan Ibn 'Uyaynah saying: they narrated to me from Abee 'Aqeel that they asked a son of 'Abdullaah Ibn 'Umar about a thing that he did not have knowledge of. So Yahyaa said to him, “By Allaah! I find it a great thing that there is the likes of you, the son of the two imaams of guidance – 'Umar and Ibn 'Umar - that is asked about an issue and doesn't have knowledge of it.’ He said: ‘By Allaah! write all of his knowledge except on three. Do not write his hadeeth from 'Ubaydah Ibn Mu'attib, as-Saaree Ibn Ismaa'eel, or Muhammad Ibn Saalim."

Muslim said: This is like what we have mentioned - from the speech of the people of knowledge about those who have been accused of lying from the narrators of hadeeth, and their informing of their defects - is abundant. The book would go beyond [its intended] inquiry in mentioning them all. So what we have mentioned is sufficient for one who strives to gain understanding and comprehend the methodology of the people in what they have said in that, and have clarified.

And indeed they have obligated themselves to uncover the defects of the narrators of hadeeth, and transmitters of reports, and to give verdicts about them when they were asked, in what is in that from great danger. Since the reports in relation to the religion indeed come with what is permissible and impermissible, or a command or prohibition, or an encouragement or dissuasion. So if its narrator is not a source of truthfulness and reliability, and one who knows of his condition comes across his narration and does not clarify it for others who are ignorant of his condition, then he becomes a sinner by this [withholding of information], a deceiver of the common-folk of the Muslims. Since there is no safety from some of those who hear these narrations to implement them, or some of them, and perhaps all of these narrations, or most of them, are lies having no origin. With the fact that the narrations of the trustworthy, and the satisfactory are more than enough than to need to narrate from those who are neither trustworthy nor satisfactory.

And I do not consider there are many, from the people who turn to what we have described from these weak narrations and unknown chains of narration, and rely upon them after his knowledge of what is found in them from weakness- except that those who do carry these narrations and rely on them desire [to show] an abundance of narrations to the common-folk. So it would be said, "How many are the ahaadeeth that so and so have collected!"

CHAPTER: THE SOUNDNESS OF USING THE HADEETH OF THE MU'AN'AN AS A PROOF WHEN THERE IS A POSSIBILITY OF ITS NARRATORS MEETING AND WHEN THEY ARE NOT MUDALLIS:

And some of the people hadeeth of our time have spoken in the authentication of the chains of narration and their weakening with speech, that if we were to turn away from them and the mentioning of their evil, it would be a strong opinion and a correct methodology. Since turning away from the rejected statement, and leaving off the mention of the one who stated it, is safer and more appropriate than to arouse the ignorant to him. Except that because we fear the evil outcome, and the delusion of the ignorant by the newly invented matters, and their hastening into the incorrect belief of those who have fell into error, and statements that are rejected by the scholars, we see the exposing of his statements, and refuting his speech, to the degree that it is deserving of, is more beneficial for the people, and has a more praiseworthy ending - if Allaah wills.

And the one who we began our speech about his statement, and informed about his poor understanding, contends that every chain of narration for a hadeeth that has in it, "so and so from so and so," and fully comes to know that the two [narrators] were both in one period, and it is possible that the hadeeth of which they narrated from one narrator on another was heard directly. Except that we do not know [for sure] if he heard from him, and did not find anything from the narrations that they ever met or heard from one another directly, that the proof is not established with him from this possibility, until there comes to him the knowledge that they met at least once or more in their time, or narrated a hadeeth directly from one another, or there comes in a report clarification of their meeting or coming together once or more in their time. So if there does not come to him this information or an authentic report informing him that the narrator has met the one he is relating from at least once, and heard something from him, then there would not be in his narration a report from one that he knew that of. And the affair is - as we have described - is a proof, but the narration with him is mawqoof (halted) until there is comes to him [proof] of his hearing something from him directly, few or many.

And this statement, may Allaah have mercy upon you, is in defamation to the chains of narration, an innovated statement, of which its possessor has not been preceded, and has no aid from the people of knowledge, and the well-known statement that is accepted by the people of knowledge of narrations, past and present, is that every trustworthy narrator, who narrates on one who is like him, and it is possible that he met him and heard from him, because they were in the same era even if there never comes a report that they met or spoke, their narration is established, and its [acceptance as a] proof is obligatory, unless there comes a clear indication that the narrator did not meet the one that he was relating from, but as for the matter that is unclear, with the possibility which have been explained, then the narration is accepted until there is proof which we have clarified.

So it is said to the innovator of this saying of which we have described or the one who defends it, you have given in your saying that the report of a lone trustworthy [narrator] from a lone trustworthy [narrator] is a proof that is obligatory to work by, then you added a condition after that. So you said, “[It is not accepted] until it is known that they met at least once, and heard something from him.” So do you find this condition of which you have made from anyone? Then if so bring a proof for what you have claimed.

So if claims that this is the statement of one of the scholars of the Salaf, with what he has alleged in adding this condition to the authentication of a report, then proof of this is sought from him. But he, or other than him, will never find anything from that.

And if he alleges that he has proof for this, then it is said to him, “What is your proof?” So if he says: “I said it, because of what I found from the narrators past and present narrating on one another a hadeeth and did not see him or hear from him. So when I saw them consider narrations like this to be Mursal (broken), and Mursal in the basis of our statement and that of the people of knowledge is not a proof, I desired, what I had described, a search on the hearing of the narrator of every report from the one who related it. So if I find them hearing [from one another] by the closest possible thing, then all of what he relates after that from him is authentic with me. But if I am not able to find that, then I suspend the report and do not consider it a proof because of the possibility of Irsaal (breakage) in it.”

So it is said to him, “So if the reason for your making the report weak, and abandoning it as a proof, is the possibility of Irsaal (breakage) in it, then this would necessitate you not to authenticate any chain of narration that is Mu’an’an until you see them hearing [from one another] from its beginning to its end.”

And that is like the hadeeth that has reached us by the chain of Hishaam Ibn 'Urwah from his father on 'Aa'ishah. We know with surety that Hishaam heard from his father, and that his father heard from 'Aa'ishah, just as we know that 'A'ishah heard from the Prophet. So it is possible, since Hishaam did not say, in the narration on his father, “I heard,” or “He informed me,” that there is another person between him and his father in these narrations on his father, and he did not directly hear them from him, so he narrated them Mursal and did not base it on the one he heard it from. And like this is possible with Hishaam and his father, it is also possible with his father on 'Aa'ishah, and also every chain of narration that does not specify that the narrator heard from the one he is reporting from.

If it is known as a whole that every one from them heard a number of narrations from his companion, then it is possible for everyone from them to narrate the hadeeth on an intermediary who heard it from him in some of the ahaadeeth, then sometimes skip him and not name the one he heard it from, and then sometimes name the intermediary and leave the Irsaal.

And what we have mentioned from this is extensively found in the hadeeth from the action of the trustworthy scholars and the Imams of the people of knowledge. We will mention from their narrations, from the perspective that we cited, a number that points to more than them Allaah willing.

From this that Ayyoob as-Sakhtiyaanee, Ibnul-Mubaarak, Wakee', Ibn Numayr, and a group other than them, narrated from Hishaam on his father on 'Aa'ishah. She said, "I used to perfume the Messenger of Allaah, and his Ihraam (pilgrimage cloak) with the best scent I could find."

Layth Ibn Sa'd, Daawood al'Attaar, Humayd Ibnul-Aswad, and Wuhayb Ibn Khaalid Aboo Usaamah all narrate this hadeeth from Hishaam who said: 'Uthman Ibn 'Urwah reported to me from 'Urwah on 'Aa'ishah on the Prophet.

Hishaam narrates from his father on 'Aa'ishah who said, "If the Prophet made I'tikaaf in the mosque he would lay his head on me, and I would comb it while I was on my menses." Maalik Ibn Anas narrated the same on az-Zuhree on 'Amrah on 'Aa'ishah on the Prophet.

Az-Zuhree and Saalih Ibn Abee Hasan both narrate it from Aboo Salamah on 'Aa'ishah, "The Prophet used to kiss me and he was fasting." Yahyaa Ibn Abee Katheer said about this narration on kissing: Aboo Salamah reported to me that 'Umar Ibn 'Abdul-'Azeez related to him that 'Urwah related to him that 'Aa'ishah related to him that the Prophet used to kiss her and he was fasting.

Ibn 'Uyaynah and other than him narrated from 'Amr Ibn Deenaar, from Jaabir that he said, "The Messenger of Allaah fed us horse meat and prohibited us the meat of domesticated donkey." Hamaad Ibn Zayd narrated it from 'Amr on Muhammad Ibn 'Alee on Jaabir from the Prophet. There are many narrations like these, and what we have mentioned is sufficient for those who possess understanding.

So if the reason with the one we described previously, in his weakening of the hadeeth, if he did not know of the narrator hearing from the one he is relating on, is the possibility of Irsaal, then this necessitates his abandoning the using as proof the narrations of the one that it is known that he heard directly from the one he is relating on, except in the very same narration of which he directly heard is mentioned, from what we have explained previously about the imams of whom related reports sometimes with Irsaal, not mentioning the one they heard it from directly, and sometimes they would mention it and connect the chain the way it came, as we had explained that on them.

And we do not know of anyone from the scholars of the Salaf who applies the reports and investigates the authenticity of the chains, and their weaknesses, like Ayyoob as-Sakhtiyaanee, Ibn 'Awn, Maalik Ibn Anas, Shu'bah Ibnul-Hajjaaj, Yahyaa Ibn Sa'eed al-Qattaan, 'Abdur-Rahmaan Ibn Mahdee and those after them from the people of hadeeth, that searches for the place of hearing in the chains like the one who claimed what we described from his saying earlier.

The only time they searched for the hearing of the narrator from the one he related on was if the narrator was known for tadlees (concealment) in hadeeth, and was famous for it. So at that point they would search for his hearing in his narrations. And they would examine that from him, in order to remove the weakness of his tadlees.

So that was not desired from other than the one who made tadlees, upon the claim of the one whose statement we mentioned, and we did not hear that from any of the scholars that we named or the ones we did not name.

From this also that 'Abdullaah Ibn Yazeed al-Ansaaree, and he saw the Prophet, narrated from Hudhayfah, and from Aboo Mas'ood al-Ansaaree, and from both of them is a hadeeth connected to the Prophet, and there isn't in his narration from the two of them a of the confirmation of hearing from them, and we have not memorized anything from the narration that 'Abdullaah Ibn Yazeed ever spoke directly with Hudhayfah and Aboo Mas'ood. And we have not found that he saw them in any narration either.

And we have not heard from the people of knowledge of the past, or the ones that we have met, that they criticized these two reports, of which 'Abdullaah Ibn Yazeed narrated from Hudhayfah and Aboo Mas'ood, with a weakness in them, rather they are, and what resembles them, from the authentic chains of narration with those we have met from the people of knowledge in hadeeth, and they saw the adherence to what was mentioned in them, and implementing what they came with from the sunan and aathaar.

And it is in the claim of the one we mentioned his saying before that it is weak until confirmation of hearing is attained from the narrator on the one he is relating from. If we were to go and count the reports that are authentic with the people of knowledge, that were are weak by the claim of this one, we would not be able to enumerate them all. But we wanted to bring a small number to be an example for what we did not mention from them.

Aboo 'Uthmaan an-Nahdee, Aboo Raafi' Saa'igh, and they are from those who lived during al-Jaahiliyyah (pre-Islaamic times of ignorance) and accompanied the companions of the Messenger of Allaah from the people of Badr and so on and they narrated the reports until they took from Aboo Hurayrah, Ibn 'Umar and their likes, and both of them have connected ahaadeeth from 'Ubayy Ibn Ka'b on the Prophet, and we haven't heard from any narration that the two saw 'Ubayy or they heard anything from them.

Aboo 'Amr ash-Shaybaanee, from those who lived during al-Jaahiliyyah and was a man during the time of the Prophet, and Aboo Ma'mar 'Abdullaah Ibn Sakhbarah, both related two reports from Aboo Mas'ood al-Ansaaree on the Prophet.

'Ubayd Ibn 'Umayr related a hadeeth from Umm Salamah, wife of the Prophet, from the Prophet, and he was born in the time of the Prophet.

Qays Ibn Abee Haazim, who lived in the time of the Prophet, related three narrations from Aboo Mas'ood al-Ansaaree on the Prophet.

Qays Ibn Abee Haazim, who lived in the time of the Prophet, related three narrations from Aboo Mas'ood al-Ansaaree on the Prophet.

Rabee' Ibn Hiraash related two ahaadeeth from 'Imraan Ibn Husayn on the Prophet, and one hadeeth from Aboo Bakrah on the Prophet, and Rabee' heard from 'Alee Ibn Abee Taalib and narrated from him.

Naafi' Ibn Jubayr Ibn Mut'am related a hadeeth from Aboo Shurah al-Khuzaa'ee on the Prophet.

An-Nu'maan Ibn Aboo 'Ayyaash related three ahaadeeth from Aboo Sa'eed al-Khudree on the Prophet.

Sulaymaan Ibn Yasaar related a hadeeth from Raafi' Ibn Khadeej on the Prophet.

Humayd Ibn 'Abdur-Rahmaan al-Himyaaree relates some ahaadeeth from Aboo Hurayrah on the Prophet.

So with all of these Taabi'een of whom we mentioned their narrations on the companions that we named, there has not been preserved from them confirmation of hearing in any narration that we know of, or that they met them in the same report.

And they are authentic chains with the people of knowledge. We do not know of them ever weakening anything from them, or seeking in them the confirmation of hearing from one another, if it was possible that he heard from his companion, by the fact that they were from the same time period.

This saying of which the one who says it has innovated, in the weakening of the hadeeth for the reason that he described, is too insignificant to turn to and mention, since it is a newly invented statement that no one has stated from the past people of knowledge, and those who came after them reject it, so there is no need for us to refute it with more than what we have explained, since that is the measure of the statement and the one who said it. And Allaah's aid is sought in repelling what has opposed the way of the Scholars, and upon Him we depend. All praise is due to Allaah Alone, and the prayers and may the peace be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his Family, and his Companions.
